

THE GONZALES-ELLERBE TURMOIL

The newspapers and the politicians for the past week have been thrown into a considerable turmoil by the severe comments on the alleged deal between Governor Ellerbe and Editor Gonzales of the Columbia State. We think the affair most unfortunate and there has been more fuss kicked up over it than was necessary; it furnished the opposition to the dispensary, material upon which to build prejudice.

Some of those with whom we came in contact condemn Governor Ellerbe for being so short-sighted as to allow himself placed in a position of being accused of dickered with known opponents of the dispensary law, while others believe that the Governor has been the victim of misplaced confidence. Many friends of the dispensary feel there was a premeditated plot to entrap the Governor and weaken his influence with the present Legislature. Then there are others who claim it was a game of politics upon the principle of "fighting the devil with fire."

We have read with care that portion of the Governor's message which Editor Gonzales claims was a violation of a promise made, and which has brought about all of this terrible arraignment, and for the life of us we cannot see wherein Governor Ellerbe has violated the promise, if he made one. The letter from the Governor to Mr. Weston that was marked "confidential" and which Editor Gonzales submits as proof, does not make any promise which was not contained in the message. In that letter to Mr. Weston he says, "I concur with your views upon the liquor question." The Governor in his message recommends that the liquor question be submitted to the people. What is the "liquor question?" The constitution has killed the barroom system, but has left open the right for the people to say in the future whether they would have the dispensary, prohibition or high license. Governor Ellerbe in all of his utterances advocated the dispensary system, and in his message he recommends, the liquor question to be submitted to the people for settlement; and where a county votes prohibition, that county should be deprived of any of the liquor revenues and be required to enforce the execution of the law at its own expense.

Editor Gonzales claims the Governor promised to recommend "high license." The Weston letter does not say so; it says, "I concur with your views upon the liquor question." The whole thing hinges upon Weston's views as expressed to Governor Ellerbe in private. We do not know what Mr. Weston's views were, but we have always regarded him friendly to the dispensary system but desiring to have the question submitted to the people for settlement and put a stop to the constant discussion. If the private conversations between Governor Ellerbe and his friend, Mr. Weston, brought about a promise to recommend high license, the promise was not made in words, but in effect it was, because when he recommended the submission, the general assembly could say dispensary, prohibition, or high license, and would do so, even without a recommendation, if it saw fit. But if the Governor made the promise and by it Mr. Weston secured the support of Mr. Gonzales, he should have carried it out and his not having done so was a mistake. It will be remembered that the Governor can only make suggestions to the General Assembly, and it is for this law-making body to say whether the Governor's suggestions shall be enacted into law. If this were not so, the Legislature would be a useless branch of the government.

The only difference we can see between the recommendations of the Governor and what Mr. Gonzales claims is that the words "high license" were not incorporated in the message, but the fact of the Governor recommending a vote on the liquor question, would seem to be as much as the strongest advocates of leaving the people decide the question can desire. We have no idea that Governor Ellerbe had any intention of misleading anyone, for we cannot see in any part of his message one single promise made to the people which he failed to carry out.

Our readers will remember how the liquor men rushed over to the prohibition side, between the first and second primary, and in their eagerness to destroy the dispensary, they did not conceal their intentions; the friends of Governor Ellerbe saw how bent the anti-dispensary forces were to destroy the dispensary and bring about a free liquor condition; then it was that the Governor's friends undertook to counteract the work of the opposition, and knowing the Governor was convinced there were several counties in the State that wanted to be rid of liquor in any form, they went out and made impressions which led some of the opposition into the belief that the Governor would incorporate the words "high license" in his message. We contend, the letter written to Mr. Weston on his face, did not commit Governor Ellerbe to "high license," it only committed him to certain views not expressed in that letter, but expressed to the Governor in private. Now what were the views Mr. Weston expressed, and in which the Governor said he concurred?

We would not for a moment, insinuate that Mr. Weston expressed one view to the governor and another to Editor Gonzales, but political excitement was high and the prohibitionists, with their unnatural alliance, were making things too close for comfort, and Governor Ellerbe, in his extreme anxiety, may have conceded more than he intended, but when the time came to write his message, the political battle was over, and his promises to the people were carried out faithfully. We know Mr. Weston to be an honorable man and we are sure he had no intention to bring about this turmoil; being the Governor's friend, he was anxious to see him elected; we have no idea he intended to deceive anybody nor do we believe it was Governor Ellerbe's intention to do so. There has, in our opinion, been too much feeling shown in this matter, and the only persons benefitted are the politicians who are to gain by the agitation.

Senator McLaurin made a speech in the Senate last Friday against the administration's imperial policy, and in it he scored many strong points. He spoke for over one hour and held the attention of the Senators and spectators.

The silly stuff going the rounds of the press about impeaching the Governor because of the Gonzales-Ellerbe row is preposterous. The General Assembly has nothing whatever to do with what occurred between Mr. Gonzales and Mr. Ellerbe in the primary election; that is a matter entirely for the people; if they believe the Governor played a trick-card to win his election, and they consider he was unfair, they can take it again; this is our view, notwithstanding the grand display of legal lore volunteered the General Assembly by the News and Courier in its issue of the 14th inst.

The row kicked up by the Columbia State over the alleged breach of faith on the part of the Governor has, to a certain extent, prevented a fair consideration of the message. This document in its entire, is of more importance to the people than the solving of the question, did Governor Ellerbe resort to unfair means to secure the support of Editor Gonzales? A reading of the message will show that the Governor has prepared a paper which must strike every newspaper reader with its strong presentation of the State's condition. His recommendations are sound and practical and we hope the prejudice created by the State's arraignment will not affect legislation nor retard the work of the members of the General Assembly.

Washington Letter.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 13, 1898.—Signs are plentiful that Mr. McKinley is alarmed by the extent of the Senatorial sentiment against our permanent ownership of the Philippines that has been brought out this week. Senator Foraker tried to answer the Senatorial argument made by Senator Hoar against our right to own the islands, and Senator McKim's speech in favor of his resolution declaring that the U. S. will not attempt to control any other people without their consent, but the administration would doubtless have preferred another and abler champion. Other disturbing elements to the expansion-or-bust men were a resolution for the recognition of Filipino independence, offered by Senator Bacon, and another that any aggressive action against the Filipinos on the part of the administration would be an exercise of Constitutional power vested exclusively in Congress, offered by Senator Allen.

In addition to these, a number of Senators, by question interjected in the debate, made it plain that they are opposed to our retaining the Philippines. That things are getting warm in the vicinity of the White House was shown by the giving out of a semi-official statement that Mr. McKinley had never expressed himself in favor of permanent ownership of the Philippines, and that his intentions had gone no further than to give the islands a military government similar to that now in Cuba. The statement intimates, without saying, that if the Filipinos show themselves capable of maintaining a stable government Mr. McKinley would doubtless favor their independence in time.

Such statements are not binding on Mr. McKinley, even if they were explicit. He had an opportunity to say just what his intentions are, when he sent the treaty to the Senate, but he didn't do it.

The Democrats on the Committee on Foreign Relations interposed no objections and the treaty of peace was reported to the Senate this week. The treaty will be ratified, but how soon will depend upon whether its opponents, who are more numerous than they were at first supposed to be, will be satisfied merely to go on record against it with their votes.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie is in Washington, openly working against the ratification of the treaty of peace. He thinks that if Col. Bryan would revise his advice and try to get democratic Senators to vote against the treaty, instead of voting for the treaty and afterwards against expansion, its rejection would follow. He said: "All that I hear indicates the increase of the opposition, and I am quite encouraged to believe that the ratification of the treaty can be defeated. According to my opinion, this is the opportune time for those who oppose expansion to do their work. Only a one-third vote is required to defeat the treaty, whereas with the treaty ratified, we will have to secure a majority to make our views effective. Hence, I say that this is the time for Mr. Bryan and other anti-expansionists to make the fight. Hereafter we will not enjoy the advantage over our opponents that we now do, having them to meet them in the open field."

Senator Morgan secured the consent of the Senate to vote upon his Nicaragua Canal bill, next Tuesday, and he is confident that it will pass, with amendments acceptable to him. The House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce is unanimously in favor of the canal, but divided on how it shall be built.

The sword that Congress had made for Dewey is on exhibition in Washington; also the sword which the Royal Arcanum had made at a cost of $1,500 for Schley, but nobody is exhibiting a sword that anybody intends for Sampson, who not being able to pull a presentation sword will have to be content with having pulled more promotion than he was entitled to from the Navy Department.

Mr. McKinley did not consult any of the leaders of his party before promoting Charles McNamara, of Pa., from the Austrian Minister to be Ambassador to Russia, and appointing Addison C. Harris, of Ind., who isn't personally known by hardly anybody in Washington, outside of the Indiana delegation in Congress, Minister to Austria. Both are regarded as personal appointments. The nomination of Joseph H. Choate, of N. Y., to be Ambassador to England was a Platt deal.

The Democratic and populist Senators are preparing to make a warm fight against the Hull army bill, which has been delayed in the House by the illness of Representative Hull, when it reaches the Senate after being jammed through the House by administration influence, and it begins to look as though the bill would fall at this session of Congress, adding another to the numerous things that will increase the probabilities of a spring extra session of the next Congress.

Gen. Leonard Wood, the fortunate gentleman who jumped from an army surgeon with the rank of Captain, detailed to act as the McKinley family physician, to be a Major General, during the scrap with Spain, and who is now military commander of the Santiago district, in Cuba, is in Washington, under orders. It is believed that Gen. Wood was sent for by Mr. McKinley in connection with some of the troubles that have already cropped out among the army officers who form the military government of Cuba. He is going right back.

A Clever Trick.

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has lame back and weak kidneys, malaria or nervous troubles. We mean he can cure himself right away by taking Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to the liver and kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures constipation, headache, fainting spells, sleeplessness and melancholy. It is purely vegetable, and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c a bottle at K. B. Loryea's drug store.

Having a Great Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Manager Martin of the Pearson drug store informs us that he is having a great run on Chamberlain's cough remedy. He sells five bottles of that medicine to one of any other kind, and it gives great satisfaction. In these days of grippe there is nothing like Chamberlain's cough remedy to stop the cough, heal up the sore throat and lungs and give relief within a very short time. The sales are growing, and all who try it are pleased with its promptness and cures, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect relief or money refunded. Price 25c. per box. For sale by K. B. Loryea, druggist.

Kissing is unhealthy if her father catches you at it.

An Old Idea.

Every day strengthens the belief of eminent physicians that impure blood is the cause of the majority of our diseases. Twenty-five years ago this theory was used as a basis for the formula of Brown's Iron Bitters. The many remarkable cures effected by this famous old household remedy are sufficient to prove that the theory is correct. Brown's Iron Bitters is sold by all dealers.

It never cools a man off when the street sprinkler throws water on him.

Col. Lip Levin is responsible for the following story, which he says was told him by a naval officer:

As a supper given to some of the captains of the navies of England, Russia, Turkey, France and America, a toast from each one in honor of the flag he defended was called for. Here they are:

The Russian said: "Here is to the bars and stars that have never been torn down."

The Turk said: "Here is to the moon of Turkey whose wings have never been clipped."

The Frenchman said: "Here is to the cock of France, whose feathers were never pulled."

The American said: "Here's to the stars and stripes of America, which have never known defeat."

The Englishman concluded as follows: "Here is to the rampant, roaring lion of Great Britain, that has torn down the stars and bars of Russia; that clipped the wings of the moon of Turkey; that pulled the feathers of the cock of France, and ran like a—l from the United States of America."—Columbia Record.
